

HELP PREVENT POSSIBLE PIPELINE EMERGENCIES

SIGNS OF A LEAK:

- LOOK for blowing dirt or continued bubbling in standing water, dead or discolored vegetation.
  - LISTEN near a natural gas appliance or line; there may be a hissing or roaring sound when natural gas is leaking.
  - SMELL for the distinctive, rotten-egg odor associated with natural gas.
- Note: Do not rely solely on the recognition of the scent of the odor, because of diminished sense of smell due to age or extended exposure, you may not immediately smell the odorant. In addition, the strength of the odorant may fade over time. However, some gas lines due to their unique function may not have odor at all.

ACTIONS TO TAKE IN CASE OF LEAK:

- LEAVE the area immediately if you detect a natural gas leak. Don't try to identify the source or to stop the leak yourself.
- AVOID contact with anything that may cause a spark. This includes using lighters, matches, cigarettes, flashlights, light switches, cellphones and telephones in the area of the suspected leak. You should even wait until you are away from the area to use a cell phone.
- CALL 911, your local gas company (see list inside) and Georgia 811 once you are out of the area of the suspected leak and in a safe place. Stay away until a representative from the pipeline operator or emergency personnel indicates it is safe to return.

Every day, natural gas is safely and efficiently delivered to millions of businesses and homes in the United States through more than two million miles of underground pipelines.

While incidents are uncommon, it's still important to educate yourself about natural gas safety. Even the smallest pipeline leak can have consequences such as fire or explosion.

Pipeline operators are concerned for your safety and adhere to state and federal pipeline safety regulations, perform quality control checks and educate the public on gas-leak recognition and prevention.

While those measures contribute to pipeline safety, the biggest threat remains with excavation activities. Please do your part to ensure pipeline safety by dialing 811 before you dig!

REMEMBER

- Contact Georgia 811 before you dig by either dialing 811 or online at Georgia811.com
- Wait the required amount of time (Forty eight hours notice beginning the next business day after such notice is provided, excluding hours during days other than business days.)
- Check the Positive Response Information System (PRIS) to see how utilities have responded to your locate request – Call 888.670.2902, access it online at Georgia811.com or download the GA811 mobile app for Apple and Android devices. Respect the Marks, Dig With Care
- Natural gas has that “rotten egg” odor added for your protection. However, some gas lines due to their unique function may not have odor at all.

If you or someone you are working with hits a natural gas line or smell, see or hear gas escaping while digging or excavating, please do the following:

- Do not use any devices that might create a spark
- Go to a nearby phone and dial 911 and local pipeline operator's emergency line
- Keep everyone away from the line break until the site is made safe
- Remember: Demolition is considered excavation
